Day 7:

1. Final Project and Review
2. Final project to demonstrate proficiency
3. Course review and feedback

Assignments:

1. Create a new spreadsheet and input your monthly budget, including your income, expenses, and savings. Use basic Excel functions such as SUM, AVERAGE, and MAX to analyze your budget and create a simple chart to represent your data.
2. Use Excel to create a simple gradebook for a fictional class of students, with columns for their names, quiz and test scores, and final grades. Use basic formulas and conditional formatting to calculate the final grades and highlight any failing grades in red.
3. Create a simple inventory tracking system for a small business, with columns for item names, quantities, and prices. Use Excel functions such as IF and VLOOKUP to calculate the total value of the inventory and create a simple profit and loss statement.

Final Project:

For the final project, students can choose to create a more advanced spreadsheet based on their own interests or needs. This could include a financial analysis of a real-world business or investment, a sports statistics tracker, a travel budget planner, or any other project that requires more advanced Excel skills. The final project should demonstrate the student's ability to use advanced Excel functions, create meaningful charts and graphs, and effectively present and analyze data. The final project should also include a brief written report explaining the purpose of the project, the data sources used, and the insights gained from the analysis.
